M&R Rush

Between the Lines

Description:

"Between The Lines" is the sixth and latest album by this veteran group from Chicago Illinois who has rocked since the mid-1970s with the original line-up intact. The M&R guys always deliver just what their fans expect of them -- straight ahead guitar-driven rock with a '70s/'80s flavoring that recalls the many arena rock groups who inspired them. What's always been pleasing about M&R albums is how the songwriting is as good or better than that of their more famous, classic rock contemporaries. That holds true again on the eleven tracks here.

"Between The Lines" is different from past M&R albums in that it's more diverse, with songs covering broader ground, such as the Jeff Luif-written "Sky," and Paul Martin's delightfully abstract "When Melvin Drives The Bus." This is a solid collection, enhanced by "Reckless Love," a tune written by Jim Peterik.

Influences:

Aerosmith, Paul Rodgers, Queen, Cars.

BIO:

M&R Rush had its beginnings in the early 70's, when a group of high school friends from Chicago had a dream of making it in the music business. An exciting classic rock band with exceptional four part harmonies and a powerful stage show. They have been Rockin' audiences for many years and are known for their exciting live shows. From the time the show starts until the final encore, the audience knows they are witnessing something special. Their ability to connect to the crowd and to have fun while making great music must be the reason why so many people love them.

With the original line-up intact, 2018 saw the release of their 6th album "Between the Lines". This album is different from past M&R albums in that it's more diverse, with songs covering broader ground, such as the Jeff Luif written "Sky," and Paul Martin's delightfully abstract "When Melvin Drives The Bus." This is a solid collection, enhanced by "Reckless Love," a tune written by Jim Peterik (Survivor fame—Eye of The Tiger) A total of eleven songs guaranteed to Rock your world!
